Fr David Writes Another emotion that we, as human beings experience is that of feeling threatened by someone else’s success. We are quite territorial in nature and some of us more than others. We tend to protect our roles in the groups that we make part of, civil, social and religious. Few of us go through life without ever joining some kind of group or club. Most of us feel proud to be part of a specific group. The group gives an added dimension to our identity and personality. The social aspect of the group provides us with friendship and companionship. The aims and mission of the group becomes part and parcel of who we are. However the problems start when the group encloses in itself. On account of feeling threatened by new blood and new ideas, some groups tend to become exclusive. Some tend to do this diplomatically while others do it out rightly. They would make it very hard for new members to join. They do this by ignoring and rejecting new ideas from new members or by electing the same people in places of authority in order that nothing changes. In this way, new members would feel frustrated and not welcomed and most of the time they would decide to terminate their membership. Another way of rejection is to gang against a member of the group if they start feeling that she or he is becoming a threat to their status quo. This is the symptom of a sick and toxic group. In scapegoating the individual, the group feels that it is not them to blame but the other. Such a group has the ability to suffocate new members instead of welcoming and integrating them in the group. Unhealthy people do tend to get threatened by the gifts and successes of others. In today’s gospel the disciples of Jesus refuse to recognise the authority of an exorcist who doesn’t belong to their company. John appeals to Jesus: “Master, we saw a man who is not one of us casting out devils in your name; and because he was not one of us we tried to stop him”. The exorcist has been successful in his ministry and that success clearly worries the disciples. The disciples are obviously threatened by the outsider’s success. Maybe they are apprehensive about being displaced? Are they frightened that they would become obsolete? Are they seeing ministry as rivalry, a competition? Seeing this man’s success in his ministry, the disciples seem to feel diminished, reduced, lessened as disciples. It’s as if their own self esteem will be reinforced if the outsider is rejected. However Jesus refuses to play their game and collude with them. Instead he helps them to perceive a larger vision – that of God’s goodness. This vision is larger than their little power games and insecure personalities. This vision transcends their own 'egos' and sets their eyes on what is essential. The essential is not about who is performing good deeds but who is being healed. It's not a question whether this particular person is part of our religious group or clique but the important thing is whether he or she is making a difference. There are people who refuse to read or listen to anyone if he or she is not catholic for example. In doing so they are hindering the Spirit of God to work within them and others. God is constantly pushing our comfort zones and to envision larger. It's a great gift for me to listen and read books written by the Dalai Lama for example. I consider him to be a man of good will and immense spirituality. I feel that God is using him to speak to us in our world today. Gandhi is another person that I have the greatest respect for. I will never forget the Inter-religious meeting that the late and Saint John Paul 11 organised at the beginning of his pontificate in 1982 in Assisi. For me personally, it was pivotal for the discerning of my vocation. I remember saying to myself – if the Catholic Church is willing to encourage us to look beyond our 'group' to seek the truth, I would love to be part of it in the role of priest. This specific event inspired me. Both Pope Benedict and Pope Francis continued on this tradition and organised similar meetings subsequently, in Assisi. If we are grounded in a healthy sense of self, if we work towards feeling less insecure within ourselves, we have no reason why to feel threatened about other people's talents and gifts. The person who would feel threatened and territorial is the person who feels insecure within himself or herself and perceives life to be a competition - who is going to win. On the other hand if a person is reasonably secure would welcome other people who bring new ideas and instead of trying to undermine them, he or she would be happy to encourage and empower them to thrive. As human beings, we do struggle when our egos get in the way. How beautiful and enriching life would be if we transform the wasteful energies with internal politics within our groups and communities in creative ministries and trying to make a difference in the life of others. May our energies in the groups we find ourselves in, be generous and may it caters for the common good and not only for our own Egos. May God give us the humility and insight to listen to what God is trying to let us know through this week's Readings. May God keep on blessing you and your families on your journeys.

"Drop-In" Evening Surgeries – Please note the next drop in will be Tuesday 9th October – 5pm to 7pm.

Invitation for New Members To The St James' Parish Pastoral Council (The PPC)

Our PPC was formally inducted in February 2016 following a number of months of information sharing and a process to recruit interested parishioners as its first members. The role of the PPC is to discern, and aim to meet, the needs of our parish and we work together within a framework of 'Pillars' to do this. Since 2016, the PPC has been evolving, and some of our initial members completed their time of service and moved on toward other roles and responsibilities.

So, we now have the opportunity to invite new members to join us, and we need leaders for the Liturgy, Evangelisation and Communication Pillars. If you have the ability to lead, and maintain the momentum in, one of these Pillars, and could participate constructively with the shared responsibilities of the PPC, then we would like to hear from you.

Initially, please send an expression of interest by email to father.david@stjamespettswood.org. Please say which Pillar you would like to lead and briefly describe the skills and experience you could offer to support this. Please keep to 200 words, or less, at this stage and reply no later than 30th October.

A process, in line with the PPC's constitution, would follow.

Thank you for your interest.

Nigel – Chair of PPC

SVP Awareness Month

September is national awareness month for the Saint Vincent de Paul or SVP as it better known by.

Here in Petts Wood we have a dedicated but small group of SVP members who are active throughout the year but to achieve more we are very keen to get some new members.

We are also keen to get some volunteers who can help us out perhaps 2-3 times during the year at our events and activities.

The work of the SVP is so rewarding and enjoyable and sometimes just a kind word or time can make such a difference. We also able to give financial support to those in need and referrals frequently come through the Parish Office from Fr David.

During the year the SVP has organised Shrove Tuesday, the Summer lunch for the senior Citizens, the visit of the St James gardening Club to Southmore Court and the healing mass in conjunction with the Pastoral Team. We have also made many visits and have provided financial assistance to several individuals in real need.

To join us as a member or to assist us at future activities please contact us through the Parish office or SVP@stjamespettswood.org

The SVP wishes to thank all those who have assisted us or attended one of our events during the year.
